LIVE GOLF SCORING

The organiser's guide

Everything you can do with Out of Bounds, from setting up your first event to sharing the results in the group chat. Ten minutes to read. You won't need most of it, because the app tells you what to do as you go, but it's here when you want it.

1. Getting in

Go to score.outofboundsevents.com/o on your phone or laptop and sign in with Google, Apple or your email. There are no passwords. If you choose email, we send you a link; tap it and you're in. You stay signed in on that device.

Put it on your home screen

On your phone, the first time you open it you'll be offered "Add to home screen". Say yes. It then opens like an app, straight to your events, with no address bar. On iPhone, if you miss the prompt, tap the share icon in Safari and choose "Add to Home Screen".

> Tip Your players never sign in to anything. They get a link or scan a QR code, find their name, and score. Keep that in mind when someone asks "do they need the app?" They don't.

2. Your events

Your events page shows everything in three sections: Live now, Coming up and Finished. Each card tells you where the event is and gives you the one button you need next: Add players, Go live, Open, or Share results.

+ New event starts a fresh one. Run it again on a finished event copies the course, format and all the players into a new one, which is the quickest way to run the same day next year.

The Settings link in the top bar is where your branding, your team, your people list and your billing live.

3. Setting up an event

An event is four steps, shown across the top of the page. Each step has a tick when it's done and a big button at the bottom taking you to the next one. You can jump about between them whenever you like.

Step 1: Details

- Name and date. The name is what players and the big screen see.
- Course. Start typing and pick from the list. If your course isn't there, or has no scorecard loaded, tap Snap the scorecard, photograph the front and back of a card, and we read the pars, stroke indexes, yardages, slope and rating for every tee. Check the amber cells it flags, correct anything it got wrong, save, and it's in your library for next time.
- Tee. Pick the tee most of the field is playing. Individual players can be put on a different tee in Players.
- Format. Individual Stableford, best 2 from 4 (four-ball better ball) or pairs better ball.
- More options. Handicap allowance (we set the standard one for your format: 85% for four-ball, 95% for individual), a maximum handicap if you want one, and the freeze hole.
- Charity. Optional. Name, a line about them and a donate link. It shows on the player screens, the big screen and the results page.
- Prizes. Optional, add them any time, before or after the day. See section 9.

> The freeze hole is the bit people love. After it (we suggest the 12th), the big screen and players' phones stop updating, so nobody knows who's won until you announce it. You always see everything on your own screen.

One honest line that's also on the screen: we can't check handicaps against the WHS. Players enter their own index, and you have the final say.

4. Players and handicaps

Add players gives you four ways, and you can mix them:

- One at a time. First name, last name, handicap index if you have it.
- Paste a list. Copy names out of a WhatsApp message or an email and paste. One name per line; a handicap after the name is picked up automatically.
- Upload a spreadsheet. CSV or Excel with name and handicap columns.
- From my people list. PRO Everyone who has ever played in one of your events, tick and add.

Add me puts you in the field as a player as well as the organiser.

Handicaps

Each player shows two numbers: their index (what they told you, 14.3) and what they play off today (16), worked out from the course, the tee and the allowance. Tap a name to change their index or tee. Players with no handicap are flagged in amber; they'll play off scratch unless you add one. A player can also enter their own index when they first open their link.

Taking someone out

Before you go live, the cross removes them. Once you're live, it becomes Withdraw: they come off the leaderboard and out of their group, their scores stay in the record, and you can reinstate them if they turn up after all. A three-ball in a best-2-from-4 scores correctly on its own.

---

5. Groups and tee times

- Auto-fill sorts everyone who isn't in a group into fours. It never touches groups you've already arranged.
- Tap a player to move them to another group, or to swap them with someone.
- Arrows on each group move it up or down the running order.
- Tee times or shotgun. Set a tee time per group, or a starting hole for a shotgun. Players see theirs on their phone.
- New group, Empty this group, and Start again (which clears everything, and asks first).

Groups can be changed after you've gone live, including moving a player who has already scored. Their scores go with them.

6. Going live and what it costs

Go live reads the whole event back to you in a paragraph: date, course, tee, format, players, groups, freeze hole. Check it, then tap the button. Until you go live, nothing is visible to players and nothing is charged.

Plan	What you pay	What you get
Play	£9.99 per event plus 99p per player, paid when you go live. A 72-player day is £81.27.	Everything you need to run a day: players, groups, scoring on phones, live leaderboard, results page, WhatsApp share, a 40-person people list.
Pro monthly	£39.99 a month on a 12-month term. No per-player fees.	Everything in Play, plus your own branding, the big screen with sponsor slides, unlimited people list, team logins, prizes presentation, series and order of merit.
Pro annual	£399 a year.	Same as Pro monthly, two months free.

On Play, adding a player after you've gone live is another 99p, shown before you confirm. Withdrawals aren't refunded. You can still edit players, groups and details after going live.

7. On the day

Once you're live, your event opens on its day screen. Top to bottom:

Share with players

- Send on WhatsApp drops the join link into a chat. One link for the whole field; each player finds their own name.
- Copy link for email or anything else.
- Print QR cards gives you a page of QR codes to leave on the first tee. Players scan and they're in.

Big screen

Open big screen on any laptop, tablet or smart TV browser and leave it. It rotates through the leaderboard pages, updates itself every 30 seconds, keeps the screen awake, and respects the freeze hole. PRO It carries your colours and logo, and rotates in sponsor slides if you've added any.

Groups

One tile per group with a coloured dot. Green: scoring normally. Amber: nothing saved for 45 minutes, worth a phone call. Red: a hole was skipped. Tap a group to see every score and fix one. Edits are logged, and the results page shows when something was changed.

Leaderboard

The full, unfrozen leaderboard, for your eyes. Players and the big screen stop at the freeze hole.

Late arrivals and drop-outs

Add players still works. They land in "Not in a group"; move them in. Withdraw anyone who doesn't show. Both take seconds.

8. What your players see

They open the link or scan the card, see the list of names grouped by playing group, and tap theirs. If someone has picked the wrong name there's "Not you? Pick again".

In each group, one phone keeps score. The first person to open the scoring screen is asked to confirm she's keeping score for the group; the others see the same card, live, without a keypad. If the scorer's phone dies, anyone in the group can tap Take over scoring. Only one phone can ever write, so two people can't overwrite each other.

The scoring screen is one hole at a time: hole number and par, a row per player with the shots they get on that hole, a number pad, and Save hole. If the scorer puts a 9 on a par 3 it asks "Sure?". If a player has no score for a hole she can still save: that hole is simply a blob for that player. Scores save even without signal and catch up when it comes back.

Players can flick to the leaderboard, frozen at your chosen hole, any time.

9. Finishing and results

When the last group is in, tap Finish and publish results. Everything is counted and the results page goes live. If a group is still out and you need to call it, the link under the button lets you count holes 1 to N only, or abandon the day. If you forget, the event closes itself at midnight the following day and says so on the results page.

Prizes

Add them any time from Details. Choose from 1st, 2nd, 3rd, nearest the pin, longest drive, or your own. When you finish, 1st, 2nd and 3rd fill in from the leaderboard. Nearest the pin and longest drive have a pick-a-player dropdown, since you know who won from the card by the green. Prizes with a winner show on the results page. No prizes, no prize section. PRO A full-screen presentation view shows one prize at a time for the speeches.

The results page

A clean page with the final leaderboard, prizes, your branding and the charity. Share on WhatsApp sends it with a preview image so it looks right in the group chat. Anyone with the link can see it; nobody can change it. If you fix a score afterwards, the page shows "Updated" with the date.

Run it again copies the event, players included, for next time.

10. Pro extras PRO

- Branding. Your logo and colours on every player screen, the big screen and the results page. Out of Bounds disappears from view; it's your product on the day. We check your colours are readable and adjust the text colour automatically.
- Team. Invite helpers by email. They sign in once per device with a link, see the day screen and the full leaderboard, and can chase groups. Only you can edit scores or award prizes.
- People list. Everyone who has played with you, with their last handicap, ready to add to the next event. Players can ask to be removed with one tap from their own screen, and we do the GDPR housekeeping.
- Sponsor slides on the big screen, between leaderboard pages.
- Series and order of merit. Link events into a season and keep a running table across them.
- Export. Players, scores and results as a spreadsheet.

11. Billing

Settings, Billing. Play charges per event at the moment you go live, by card. Pro is a subscription; the monthly plan runs for a 12-month term and you can cancel any time to stop it renewing at the end of that term. "Manage your billing" opens your card details, invoices and plan.

12. If you get stuck

Tap Help at the bottom of any page. It gives you our email, hello@outofboundsevents.com, and a box to tell us what confused you. We read every one, and the confusing bit usually gets fixed rather than explained.
